

THE CAT HANGS HERSELF UPSIDE DOWN

There was one house. There were many rats there. Old, young, big, small rats were there

They would roam here and there, jump all around and frolik a lot. There were many young rats. They would play hide and seek. They never knew what is fear

One day, from somewhere, came a cat. She found the rat as a treasure in this house

The cat would hide in any corner and as soon as any rat would come, she would pounce upon him. Before the rat uttered any sound, he was in the mouth of the cat. The cat did not have to work hard at all

In this way, everyday, the rats were being killed

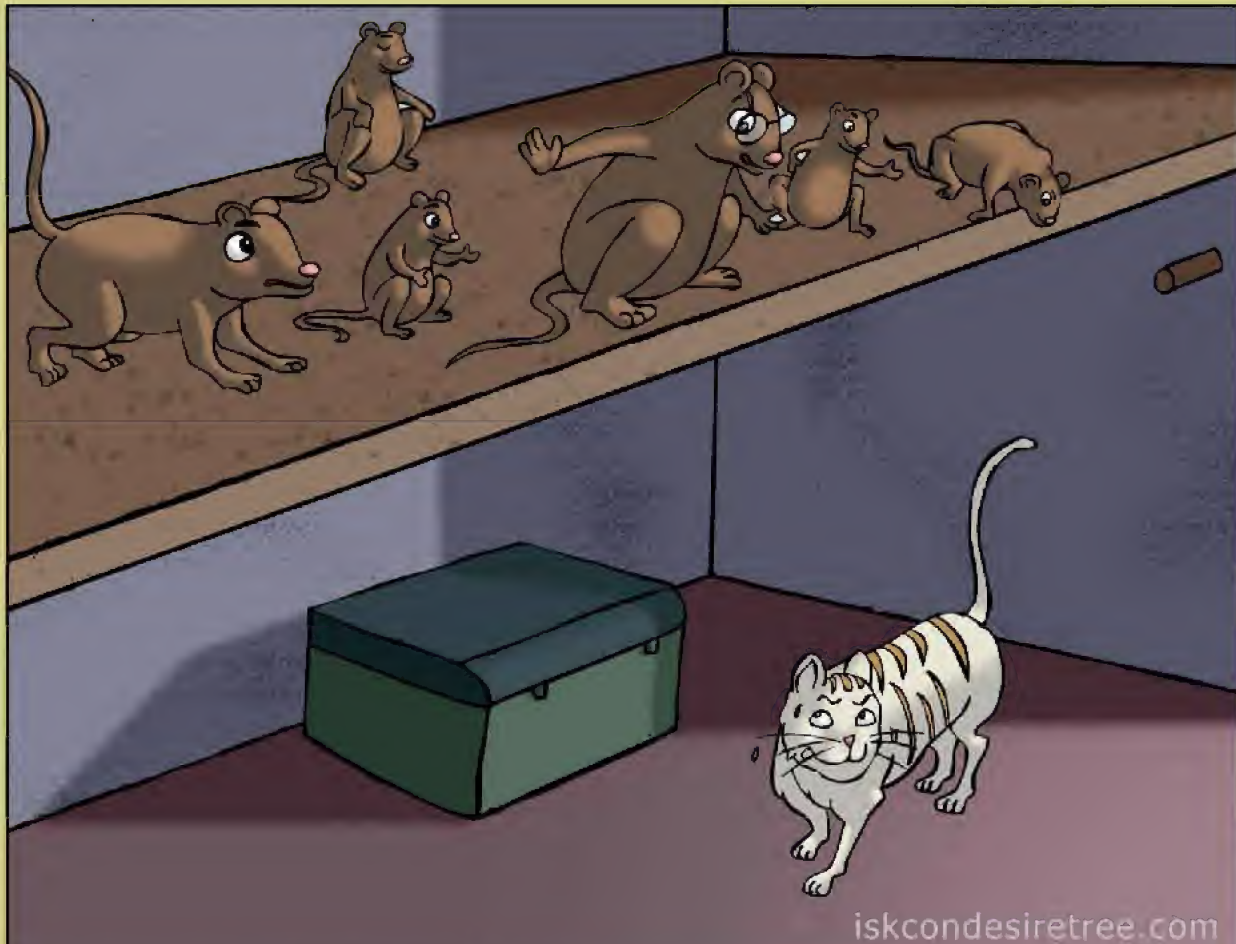

Finally, they had a meeting in the terrace of the house

From all directions, keep watching and sniffing. See where the enemy is hiding

Now we have to be alert. We should not go down from this terrace

Not even one rat was visible to the cat because the rats would not come down from terrace. Therefore the cat was hungry

The cat would try and jump a lot but she would not reach the terrace

At last, she thought of a plan. She hung herself upside down on a elongated wooden hanger

Seeing me in this condition, the rats would consider me dead and come down from the terrace. Then they would definately play around. At that time, I shall pounce upon them

One young rat saw that the cat was hanging upside down

Look, look the cat is dead. Just see how she is hung upside down

All the rats began to observe the cat. Assuming her dead, all the rats became greatly happy

At that time one old rat said....

It is not possible that the cat is dead. It is possible that she might be alive. At this time, the wind is blowing very fast. If the cat is really dead, then her tail will move atleast a little. And if she is alive, then her tail will not move a bit

The cat heard the plea of the old rat.
Quickly she began to move her tail

Seeing this the old rat said.....

This cat is alive. She is hearing my words quitely and so she is moving her tail

All the rats saw that the moving of the tail had stopped

O, you cunning cat, we have understood your plan and therefore you stop pretending that you are dead

The cat was very tired of hanging upside down so she jumped on the floor and walked away from there

All the rats began to sing in chorus
